

Fundamental Duties

India is the world's most diversified country. To govern such a big country, the Constitution of India has a huge diversity and it is also the largest Constitution of the world .To provide safety to the citizens against the wrong, the Constitution provides some fundamental rights, similarly, to prevent the citizens from not doing the required tasks for the country, the Constitution provides certain fundamental duties as the responsibility of all the citizens of India. In the 1st fundamental duty, the Constitution, asks the citizens of India to respect the National Flag, National Anthem, and National Constitution, this is the most important duty mentioned by the Constitution as the rules and regulations under the Constitution are only useful till the Constitution is respected. The second duty asks us to respect the ideals of the National Struggle of Freedom.

It is important because the country united and integrated to freedom only by following these ideals. These ideal are very in the integration of the country. The Constitution, in the 3rd duty directly asks the citizens to protect the sovereignty, unity and integrity of India. As these are the results of high sacrifice and struggle. The Constitution also asks the citizens to always be ready to be a battlefield to prevent betrayal by the citizens. Again, for the integrity of the country, the Constitution in the 5th asks the citizens to spread brotherhood, respect of women, religion and literature. In the 6th and 7th duty, the Constitution asks to respect and preserve natural and human resources of the country. To prevent people from doing crime, violence, injustice etc, The Constitution asserts the 8th duty. The 9th duty preserves the public property from violence. The 10th duty asks for the self-development of the citizens as the development of citizens ultimately leads to development of country. The last duty asks all the parent to provide education to their children, so that the development of the individual and the country also increases with time. These duties are our responsibilities and if we are not performing these duties towards the country we are not danger authorized to assert your fundamental rights as you are yourself not following the fundamental duties, similar to your criminal.
